

Fundraising mentoring services

Develop (n) - grow or cause to grow and become more mature, advanced or elaborate

As a fundraising leader, the pressures on you can be intense. Fundraising for your institution is as demanding as it is rewarding, and when combined with running a team and building strong internal relationships it can be truly challenging.

To succeed you must focus on your own development alongside your institution's. Working with a mentor with years of similar experience will pay dividends.

Catherine is a strong and adaptive leader with extensive fundraising and strategy experience spanning education, health, overseas development and the arts. She has spent 20 years developing and leading ambitious front-line teams, balancing the internal with the external whilst nurturing colleagues to deliver exceptional results.

Be the director of your own development...

“

Catherine's fundraising knowledge is extensive. No matter the topic, she possesses the wonderful skill of cutting to the salient facts of an issue with clarity and ease and is always able to offer up meaningful solutions. Over the years that I have worked with Catherine, her skills as a great listener and motivator have been of immeasurable value in helping to shape my own talents and knowledge. She leads and nurtures, as opposed to just 'telling' what should be done, meaning that the growth of those around her comes naturally.”

Chris Hibbs

Foundation Director, Charterhouse School

“

Catherine was a pleasure to work with. Over a six month period she provided fantastic coaching and mentoring, bringing focus, direction and a deep understanding of fundraising that comes from years of experience. Of particular value was talking through specific donor strategies where her clarity and empathy has helped me progress even the most difficult to navigate donor relationships. She also helped me as I worked up our first US Fundraising Strategy.

Pat Edmondson

Director - US Philanthropy,
DCU Educational Trust

Catherine Wolfgang

Senior Consultant, Halpin

Catherine's success as a mentor lies in her clarity of insight. With years of experience to draw on, a natural empathy and warmth, and the courage to challenge where needed, she works with colleagues to build on their strengths and deliver results.

Email info@halpinpartnership.com to book an exploratory call.

Tweet Catherine @CatherineWolfg2

Connect with Catherine on LinkedIn